This passage is about a person who seems ^{to} like fishing, but he actually likes ~~to~~ sitting in a boat and doing nothing at all. Nowadays, fishing as a hobby attracts many people all over the world. There are many reasons for people ^{to} like fishing such as it can help people practicing fish-catching skills, test ^{patience} their patient^s and it is also a good way to spend their free time. First of all, fishing is a skill which needs a lot of practice^s. It starts with the preparation ^{of} ~~for~~ bits to attract fish^y and various tools such as rod, hooks, etc. Next, fishing requires a great patient^s as catching fish takes time until a fish bites a hook.

In ~~the~~ contemporary time^s, keeping patient^s is an important skill for people's work and life. Furthermore, as now people are living in a fast-pac^e society and they are so busy with their work and lives, ~~thus~~ a relaxation is very important. Fishing provides people with a good way to escape from their ^{Because} dull routines of everyday life. ~~For~~ fishing spots are usually close to big rivers or seas, it gives anglers a chance ^{to be more} close to nature. This can explain why most people are not so care^{ing} about how many fish they can catch, but ^{are} really enjoying fishing as a great experience ^{during} at their leisure hours.
