This passage described ^{the} author's experience of handling a thousand books after moving into a new house. There ^{were} ~~are~~ too many books which occupied too many spaces and the small room was getting ~~more~~ smaller. It was not easy to organize these books and the old book cases were used to ^{make} ^{most} ^{of} ^{ed} better use the limit space instead of spreading ^{the book} out on the floor. It ~~is~~ ^{was} definitely an awkward moment.

It is true that book lovers often collect books because they love reading. However, ~~as~~ in an information age, there are so many ^{things} to learn. Additionally, ^{changes/grows} knowledge ^{is} updated so quickly. With the very limit ^{on} of one's time and energy, it is not possible for ^{General} ^{word} ~~one~~ a person to learn all ^{needed/necessary} ^(L) required knowledge from their collection. It is essential to choose a few good books to study and use ^(U) ^(U) knowledge ~~from these~~ ^{their} books in ~~there~~ ⁱⁿ real life. Hence, nowadays, owning a lot of books is not as important as ^{it} ^{was} ~~they~~ ^{once} ~~were~~. To be more efficient, book lovers should go along with present trends ^{and} by ^e ~~reducing~~ ^{ing} their collection ^{by} and using as ^{many} ~~much~~ libraries and electronic books as possible. This can save you a lot of room ^(space) as well.
