

José

2019-10-1

- what about?

This passage is talking about modern painting. When you go to art gallery, you can see a lot of pictures. You get excited as you see the beauty of nature and greatness of human activities. Also some pictures are about possible new life ahead. We name those pictures as landscape, figure, flower and bird painting etc.

By color and line, painting combines real world with imagination of artists. There are many ways to draw pictures. Modern painting uses many innovative techniques to visualize our world through images. It attracts a lot of people, but sometimes it is too hard to figure out its true meaning. To fully understand modern art requires a good feeling of art and observation of vivid life. whether you believe or not, the story thinks that children can better explain because they notice more.

Still life

This passage is about a church clock damaged many years ago. Finally, it was repaired by Bill, the local grocer. However, it is not fully recovered. It strikes thirteen times at one o'clock as indicated in the title 'thirteen equal one.'

Small villages are wonderful places, where people know each other well.

Typically, the public figures ^{in this small town} there are local priest, doctors, school teachers, and grocers etc. They serve their community day by day and often help to fix the problems in the area by their right actions. For instance, in this story, to repair the clock, the vicar help raise money many times, while Bill just do it by himself through hard work for several weeks. They and other volunteers are keys to help establish a strong and better neighborhood

— transition

Same

tense

Jose 2019-10-17

In this passage, Frank Hawkins is a social climber, who tried ^{ladders} in every way to climb the social ladders. People may think his success story is nothing but a polished personal history of a rich man, who takes ~~the~~ advantage of industry changes. As far as I ^{am} concerned, however, I believe that his success is the results of his diligence and his clear vision to grow his company bigger. He had a big dream, but ^{his journey} start real. His small ^{was} workshop ^{up his business} ~~is~~ a practical beginning from his earlier years of bicycle repairing experience. Despite other factors, such as ^{the} booming of airplane industry, his good services and good luck ^{here} may also directly contribute ^{due to} his business success. His step by step ^{patience} attitudes and his ^{or approaches} ~~patients~~ lead his way to success, which ^{could} ~~can~~ not be copied by most ~~of~~ others. He ^{may be} the only one known ^{for} his hardship and suffering in all these years. He is truly a self-made millionaire. Our society needs as many industrious people like him as possible.